General Comment

I am an art student who's looking into starting a free lance career in art. I wish to provide for my family and especially my special needs little brother who needs constant surveillance.

If the continuation of the administration's policies on AI goes forwards then I may not be able to provide for my family. If companies don't see any reason to spend money on an individual or groups of individuals then thousands of people will be jobless.

I understand you wish to be as efficient as possible with your policies and plans but this decision is the worst thing to come to fruition.

I implore you to look past the money and see the people on the other side who look to you as a leader.
