General Comment

The analysis of data for the betterment of human experience is a worthwhile endeavor, however the majority of AI development in the modern day is a boondoggle scam of throwing money at the same people who inflated the idea of Cryptocurrency changing the world and did nothing but defraud thousands.

A breathtaking waste of resources for a theoretical benefit that has not been proven; water, power, and the land & resources to build data centers are a waste in a nation that needs housing and healthcare NOW more than they need funny programs on their phone or the promise of a benevolent AI god from a cult of billionaire sycophants.

This idea of expending so much in service of AI is also laughable, in a nation whose leadership is killing the CHIPS act, our biggest investment in domestic microchip manufacturing. Where are we getting the chips to build all the data centers from for this AI revolution, Elon?

Our president is cutting our nation's wrists, and if we go down the path of throwing money at Artificial Intelligence then soon we will be begging China for the technological hardware to chase the pipe dream, desperately spending billions or trillions into the pockets of adversarial nations who will welcome a stranglehold over our ability to innovate the future of our domestic technology and manufacturing capability.

The legal ramifications are also a mounting issue of wasted money in court, AI currently defrauds thousands of artists and innovators by using their works without right or compensation and having the federal government take on that legal burden is just making the taxpayer take on the legal costs of thieving billionaires yet again.
