General Comment

Unchecked ai being allowed to decimate the laws of copyright can only serve to destroy any sense of ownership in this country. If corporations are allowed exemption simply because they are corporations and not individuals, this would be the largest tell that the current administration does not care for the people and instead only cares about the profits of the companies that would benefit from the allowance to skirt the laws put in place to protect creators. Like wise, I would assume should corporations be allowed to do so they will still demand their own copyright protections. Further damaging the livelihoods of creatives. We are already in a catastrophic unemployment. Pushing more people into unemployment without having available jobs for them to take would lead to massive unemployment.

Gen Ai gives no benefit to humanity other than to usurp those that have worked their lives to produce and cast them aside without any compensation. It makes humans less competent as they have been given another crutch that allows them to not have to think and instead get a machine to do so for them. This will destroy the minds of millions.
