General Comment

The AI initiative is an absolute farce. It is a waste of resources to maintain and is theft among artists, writers and creators. No consumer will support it and actively avoid its functionality and the fact that allowing corporations to utilize and leech content they do not own is blatant plagiarism, and is especially dangerous since it is stealing from businesses and individuals who rely on their own work to survive. If AI becomes unregulated and free to poach whatever it pleases, the consequences would be unfathomable.
