General Comment

As an artist who lives in these united states, we should be united against AI. What once could've been a tool used to aid the artists has became a shortcut that robs them, and they deserve not only recompense but certainty that their works will not be fed into machines incapable of providing the soul that art needs in order to make a statement. I don't expect the soulless to understand this but if you have any decency left in your shriveled, darkened, crumpled up garbage bag of an organ you call your heart, you'd oppose this plan in an instant, otherwise the sheep shall be led with a shepherd's crook held with seven digits.
