General Comment

This is such a foolish concept. Big tech half-lives thinking they just own rights to content, just because said consent is said to be singed off in ToS longer than the Bible. Yet, I imagine this means little to you. Well, You'll get your AI data alright. I suppose it'll be a sort of Ouroboros effect. When your data isn't trained ethically and transparently, ends up with foundations built on weak grounds, and falls apart in an expensive fashion further down the line, this is simply the natural progression.
