General Comment

Going forward with this AI nonsense is going to open the floodgates of lawsuits, tear apart ethics, but above all else its sucking the soul out of humanity as a whole. Why on earth do we need to continuously hammer this into Big Techs heads that not only do we not WANT AI for its lackluster tech and abilities, but to slap people in the face by unlocking the ability to have them train on works made by humans? They want all the benefits of humanity with none of the work, the dedication, the soul- they're soulsucking leeches and nothing else. You're not opening a can of worms, you're opening something far worse, for no reward.
