General Comment

The current AI boom is the result of tech grifters doing everything in their power to screw over the American people. To to completely crash every creative and artistic industry with technology that is at present entirely unethical in its creation and development.

Any legislation that empowers the use of AI will only help lead this country to ruin.

Allowing AI work to be copyrighted and ignore copyrights for its training will only destroy copyright law and the livelihoods of not only individuals and small businesses but larger companies as well such as Disney for example.

Once more when human made art becomes entirely unprofitable AI will have less and less to train on. Once the only thing it can be fed is more AI art it will poison its own well and it will also devolve into worthlessness.

AI is nothing more than a fools errand and it should be discarded as such. It is cancer on not only the various art industries but on the economy as a whole.
