General Comment

I do not believe AI has any benefit to America's present, nor its future. As it stands, bad actors see generative algorithms (commonly referred to as AI) as a way to replace creative individuals and teams. Replacing creatives with generative algorithms removes people from work environments and the economy, and is factually not up to the task of creating; generative algorithms can only regurgitate combinations of what is fed into them, a practice that is already exploiting copyrighted materials and creatives without any compensation. Generative algorithms as they are function as theft machines, and government legitimization of them is disgusting and immoral. The nation MUST follow current copyright laws and condemn generative algorithms as what they are, theft and regurgitation.
