General Comment

Allowing so-called "AI" will creatives globally, including in the United States, by devaluing the work that everyone does and making our rights to our own work live perpetually in a state of flux. This will affect everyone from individual creators to big companies by weakening the market and our workforce.

In addition, the draw on our power grid is an ecological nightmare and will result in further and further scarcity of our natural resources and further increase the cost of living for our citizens
