General Comment

Dear Mr. President,

There is absolutely no reason to pursue this plan with AI. It is purely a speculative bubble with no actual value which is built off the backs of copyright holders which have not been compensated nor did these companies receive consent from them. Creatives within every industry have categorical disagreements with AI companies. The US public does not want AI shoved down their throats. If our tax dollars aren't going to be used for things that make our country stronger or safer or better for the people who live in it, then surely this administration can find better things to use it on rather than AI that no one wants nor asked for.
