General Comment

Generative AI must only be allowed to train on content that they have been given explicit license to use or is public domain, not merely what is accessible to the public. That I can watch an NFL game in a sports bar doesn't mean I have license to use that broadcast for profit. Even if I pay to watch a movie in a theatre, that doesn't mean I can record the movie and profit from that recording. For the good of the arts, we cannot allow Generative AI to continue to steal from artists and businesses. It disincentivizes creating new content, which may eventually lead to the death of art in our society. Consider all of the things you do outside of work. Do you watch movies? If Generative AI is allowed to continue to steal content, it will no longer be profitable to make new movies. Do you listen to music? If generative AI is allowed to continue to steal content, it will no longer be profitable to make new music. It has to stop.
