General Comment

Regulations designed to maintain the integrity of creative industry and intellectual property are not "unnecessarily burdensome requirements". The only people that these laws hinder are thieves and plagiarists. The regulations are in place to protect regular people in creative industries like myself and my peers, and large IP holders both.

Generative AI does not benefit the people. It hurts the people, and burns money that could be spent improving lives in tangible ways. Please do not hurt our country more by enabling thieves and plagiarists to destroy our livelihoods.
