General Comment

I believe that AI should not be allowed to use creative works that they do not explicitly own. Copyright should cover the use of AI generation and these companies should not be allowed to use material that does not belong to them. Even if the product of the generation does not entirely match a copyrighted material, if it uses that material in its generation, then to me it's the same as stealing it. We need to protect artists and their interests, because if their work is constantly stolen then they will have no incentive to create, and then AI will have nothing to train on.
