General Comment

One of America's most influential and profitable export is media and entertainment. If no one's Intellectual Property is protected then no one would have any confidence investing in America for developing their media, and would instead seek other countries who offer better protections against "Artificial Intelligence" misuse and abuse. Copyrights must be upheld and protected from generative AI use because these technologies do not create anything new, only regurgitate what they are fed and consequently violate copyrights. Allowing rampant, unchecked abuse of generative AI will cause another of America's industry strongholds to collapse.
