General Comment

Millions of creatives around the globe rely on art across multiple mediums for their livelihood. To take their work without their permission and without compensation, and use it to then create new "works" so that shareholders and companies (who already make hundreds of thousands of dollars or more a year) even more money that they do not need. Meanwhile, tens of thousands go homeless and starve.

AI could be a powerful tool but as it is being implemented now, it is financially, socially, and environmentally destructive for millions of people. All AI models must be built upon data for which the creators have fairly paid.
