General Comment

OpenAI should not have such power in the United States of America. OpenAI's proposed immunity from copyright infringement sets a horrible precedent for what can be legally stolen in the name of corporations, not the American people.

I am a full time freelance illustrator who does not consent to my work being used by this technology in any way. This is theft coming off the backs of creatives and would effect me as well as all of my peers across our profession and beyond. Please do not do this.
