General Comment

There is nothing that national security stands to gain by letting Open AI and google bulldoze any and all art and culture other than making money and undercutting even the most indirect and inconsequential competition to their bottom line. This is not protecting the nation, this is further securing the wallets of billionaires at the cost of millions of people who haven't seen more than a thousand dollars in one place. The government is bought out and we get to suffer for it. Worse governments have done better.
