General Comment

As much as AI has grown to a populous status as a cost-cutting idea, it won't work in the long run. AI does have a part in the workplace, but not as a replacement for the artists, who are hired and make a living off their profession. AI having major restrictions into how it can be used for companies that produce media/entertainment is key, to preserve the animation industry as a whole, and to allow those who do it for work to continue to make a living from it. Say No to AI!
