General Comment

This request, if passed, would be highly dangerous and immediately harmful to American innovation and creativity. The "burdensome government requirements restricting private sector AI development and deployment" are in place to ensure that there is due process when involving matters of copyright law. This request would usurp American law in favor of giving AI-involved businesses and corporations the legal freedom to wanton theft from already-struggling American creatives, innovators, and artists.

I am stating, with absolute conviction, that this request should be denied, for the greater good of our United States of America.
