General Comment

AI steals the livelihood of any single person who works in entertainment, art, design, music, writing, coding, anything that involves human commitment to work. It steals senselessly and without any sort of reason, creating inferior and false products as a result, whether it be worse design work or actually factually wrong information. If AI is allowed to run rampant through the USA, it will destroy a large part of the American economy and will damage not only the reputation of the USA in the long run, but also lead the people to distrust any and all information they receive in any form.

The public eye already has shifted from AI being a novelty item to being a worthless service that shows the laziness and ineffective nature of any person or entity using it to try to gain further standing, advertisement, or anything of that nature. In short, AI will steal off of hard-working American people and destroy their faith in information, companies, and the government.
