General Comment

First; if a so-called service needs to scrape other creative people's work without due compensation or recognition; then it is theft, pure & simple. Second; if your entire business model consists of exploiting the work of others to provide nothing in return; then you are not a business; you are a parasite that causes more harm than good; and third; nobody is asking for this tech except greedy & lazy people who don't want to think/create/ or develop ideas themselves.
