General Comment

AI, as it currently is being used, is theft taking from hard working Americans. It is not only stealing from their past works, it is stealing from their ability to work.

As someone who has employed creatives (artists and writers), I can see the lure to using AI, but I can not morally or ethically support it in any way.

You cannot support "human flourishing, economic competitiveness, and national security" by relying on AI, and without protecting the ACTUAL individuals who make human flourishing possible (the American PEOPLE, not algorithms)

You DESTROY "economic competitiveness" by allowing AI to take from copyrighted works.

There is no "national security" if the people who produce the wealth of our culture are not protected from the predatory actions of Google and OpenAI.
