General Comment

Copyright should not be waved for AI corporations to steal from the American people. Writers, artists, voice actors, and other creatives are already losing their jobs to AI trained on their data, and the only hope is that copyright lawsuits can stop this. Without that, why would anyone create anything anymore if a soulless AI can just repackage it and sell it as its own product? Whose to stop someone from opening a fake AI company, allowing them legal access to all copyright material? This is an insane blank check that cannot be allowed to happen.
