General Comment

As an artist, it's already hard enough to make it by and be successful in the current economic climate.

Allowing AI to go unchecked will result in job losses, angry consumers, and catastrophic consequences in the arts industries, including massive losses of profit.

Furthermore, it will force more people whose life's work is art to work jobs we have been told are beneath us, jobs we were told to avoid if we were worth anything. Now we are being threatened with working the jobs we were told were only for the unskilled.
