General Comment

The violation of intellectual rights and properties by a tool that cannot inherently create nor contribute by an artificial tool that is not recognized as an entity considered with sapience or independence to understand such works is willfully ignorant on the entities and individuals responsible for such a tool. The intent shall incite a chain of events to suppress competitive practices and undermine the principles and values of the free market, and will provide a path of replacing our current system with socialist and/or communist rhetoric that may spread to other industries.
