General Comment

This current order would not only destroy any form of copyright protection of US media under those laws but would also allow foreign bodies easier access to said media due to the more lenient push for AI training making the whole push for this law useless. All this would do is give these major tech corporations that majority of the American people do not like more unneeded power. To put it short, with the growth of companies like OpenAI, all I'm seeing is a 90s Microsoft 2.0 and a law like this would for sure cause significant damage on many industries and all the content with interact with daily.
