General Comment

AI has no place in the future of the U. S. It is a scam that steals the hard work of American artists to feed algorithms that pump out homogeneous slop. This is not only an affront to art, but a threat to the inalienable right to the pursuit of happiness. Furthermore, it threatens to turn the Internet from the greatest collection of human knowledge into a cesspool of unintelligible slop.

At the most charitable, these companies developing AI are responsible for following the same laws as everyone else. If America is going to commit to the folly of treating companies like people, then they are beholden to the very same laws. If anything, they should be held to more regulations, not less, as they are capable of worse treatment of our people than any individual. I will not accept this sort of flagrant favoritism from a government that claims to lead the free nation, and I am far from alone.

Do not give corporations more freedom than the very people you claim to represent. For a lack of representation in government was the very reason our forefathers separated from England and European powers, and such desire for freedom and representation still runs in our veins.
