General Comment

AI is over-hyped and is fleecing the American public. AI is anything but intelligent and is polluting our databases by adding fictitiously generated or dangerously incorrect information to hundreds of years of history, research, and images.

As an illustrator, artist, and creator, AI steals from my livelihood and profits off of the work of myself and millions of other hardworking Americans. It is being forced down our throats at every avenue, spying on our private meetings and emails, analyzing our personal photos, and stealing work from crafts that have taken us decades to hone.

Generative AI also requires such vast quantities of energy that it is guzzling our clean water reserves and burning out our power grids.

AI is a danger to the American people and I do not believe AI holds a place in the future of the US.
