General Comment

Generative AI currently is theft of artists and photographers. Most of which are small and don't have the millions to defend themselves like mega corporations like Google, X, and OpenAI. The artists and photographers that were trained on should have a say in how their artwork is used. If that is ignored then copyright is nothing more than a way for mega corporations to protect themselves while ruining the lives of the average American artists. Artists that spent years developing their skills. Please help make laws that protect the lives of the average person that does not have millions to protect themselves. They rely on the government to make ethical choices.

Thank you.
