General Comment

AI does not have a viable future for the United States of America, let alone the entire world itself. It takes away our people's rights as artists, writers, and voice actors to express creativity and personalization. This also violates the promise of safety of everyone's respected copyright for each of their hardwork built from passion and imagination. So many people will be affected if we let AI take control of creative fields. This not only ruins the job market for many, but also the inspiration that guided many people to the careers they cherish today, and the newcoming creative talents from future generations inspired by others before them. We must protect the thing that empowers us all as creative talents that continues to motivate us everyday while perfecting the craftsmanship that we all enjoy: dreams.
