General Comment

I am deeply concerned about the impact of AI on the future of the United States. I believe generative AI tools have failed to show any real value in the life of ordinary Americans, instead consistently turning out content that is incorrect, low quality, or both. Furthermore, generative AI has been proven time and again to make significant use of internet scraping tools, stealing the creations of hard-working Americans for the purpose of creating similar-looking, uninspired slop. Our data should not be available for the taking by any shady or malicious actors, and this is doubly true for our intellectual material. AI needs more guardrails, not fewer.
