General Comment

Generative AI is nothing more than an overpriced crutch to enable the laziest and dumbest members of society. It is a drain on our collective intelligence, and ability to think critically. The powers that be, who are seeking to enact this measure, may have been sold on the con, but all evidence thus far has demonstrated this entire enterprise is little more than a bottomless financial crater, where only the prancing salesman presenting the proverbial snake oil stands to benefit, confident in the knowledge that it is not he who shall be accountable in the end. This request should be whole heartedly rejected.
