General Comment

It's imperative that AI not be immune to copyright lawsuits. I'm a US citizen, Alabama born and raised, and part of my livelihood is earned through the art that I make with my own hands. Generative AI specifically is based on and profits from art theft. It actively steals from my livelihood, steals my hard work. AI that needs to steal the work of human beings, American citizens, is something that is nowhere near as good as people try and claim it to be. AI generated "information" and summaries are almost always factually incorrect and is turning the American public into people who cannot tell truth from lie and think for themselves. AI has absolutely no place in the future of the US, especially if it's allowed to be unregulated to this degree.
