General Comment

This bill will irreparably harm creatives by allowing AI to train on their material, and reproduce it, without giving anything to the creative in return. Copyright has long been used to guarantee that those that have made something retain the rights to it so that they can make a living with it. Letting AI use such material without paying for it, simply because they want to, is the opposite of what makes capitalism work. Those that do the work should be paid fairly for their work.
