General Comment

Generative AI has no place in innovation or creative works. Using samples from artists results in essentially stolen and sub-par work as AI attempts to copy what an actual human can do. It steals the livelihood of Americans in an attempt to profit off of theft. It is a dying industry that is on its way out, and investing American time and money into it would be a complete waste. The highest proponents of generative AI either do not know what they are supporting or are just looking to make some quick money.

It would be a disservice to the American public to invest in it.
