General Comment

A completely foolish idea. Giving AI companies free reign to train on stolen data and shielding them from any punishment for doing so is disgusting. All of the AI companies are full of thieves, swindlers and crooks. AI like this should have no place in the government of the US, but really not anywhere at all considering it sucks so bad. It's a scam that's burning up what's left of the environment, to make products off of STOLEN data that aren't even good, on top of threatening the livelihood of Americans like myself. Only someone as foolish as the goons who are currently steering the ship that is our country would think this a good idea, being themselves thieves, swindlers and crooks. I strongly encourage anyone who's left with a modicum of sense and a spine to stand up and not let this happen.
