General Comment

If OpenAI and other AI Companies are given special privileges with regards to intellectual property law, the US will be opening a Pandora's Box of IP infringement for anyone and everyone to abuse under the guise of "training AI". If you wish to sink the last few truly profitable American companies, by all means allow this flagrant self immolation to continue. It will not end well for these already unprofitable companies regardless, and the US will already be at an even worse standing than our competition in China.
