General Comment

AI has already been used for impersonation and forgery, we shouldn't be enabling this further and giving the companies behind these destructive tools immunity from lawsuits! What we need is more regulations on these tools so that they aren't being used to commit actual identity fraud, be it for artists who's styles are being perfectly replicated by AI and the generated images are being sold as "official works" from the artist despite it being a forged AI image, or even normal people who are having illicit material being generated of them to be used for slander or even blackmail! The last thing we need is less guardrails on AI when it's already wrecking havoc in the world!
