General Comment

Generative "AI" steals from my livelihood and the livelihoods of millions of Americans. It is not true artificial intelligence; it is a plagiarism engine. It will ultimately undercut its own existence, as it cannot function without human ingenuity to steal, but it will bring us down in the process.

This is not merely about a new industry. This is about the future of human culture and creativity. Do not let this rot flourish without consequence here in America, or history will not remember us fondly.
