General Comment

Generative AI provides zero value to the entertainment and communication industries. The "art" it produces is plagiarized at worst, and soulless at best. The very usage of LLMs is actively eroding the intellectual and creative abilities of the human race, and allowing open training of these models on copyrighted material will only serve to further reduce the ability of the United States to produce citizens that can advance society or compete on the world stage.

What OpenAI and other LLM companies are selling is hype, with no capability or intention of ever producing a real product. Do not allow them to rob more value from the American people in order to line their pockets with investor money.
