General Comment

These supposedly "burdensome requirements" are necessary as they protect the work of Americans who have produced and continue to pursue creative endeavors in art, writing, etc that have been hand crafted by the hard work and effort of American artists, writers, etc whose livelihoods rely on owning the material and Intellectual property that they produce. AI has been found over and over to only be able to function through the theft of an astronomical amount of already owned works. I am a graphic designer, and AI steals both from my livelihood and other creative Americans' livelihoods and profits off of theft and these companies pushing so hard to remove copyright and other essential protections from artists/creatives do so without a care for the Americans' lives that they risk. I do not believe AI holds a place in the future of the US. Thank you for your time.
