

PUBLIC SUBMISSION

As of: March 21, 2025
Received: March 15, 2025
Status: [REDACTED]
Tracking No. m8a-xcvo-o9d1
Comments Due: March 15, 2025
Submission Type: API

Docket: NSF_FRDOC_0001
Recently Posted NSF Rules and Notices.

Comment On: NSF_FRDOC_0001-3479
Request for Information: Development of an Artificial Intelligence Action Plan

Document: NSF_FRDOC_0001-DRAFT-4338
Comment on FR Doc # 2025-02305

Submitter Information

Name: Katherine
Hakim

[REDACTED]

General Comment

As an artist, I depend on my work to be seen and more, for it to be a source of income. My works are inherently mine, and when anyone uses them or tries to claim them as something they have a right to, we know that to be illegal. Allowing AI companies to willfully, and knowingly, take copyrighted works and use them for their own gain is nothing short of a direct attack on me, my work, and all copyright holding persons and industries. If AI is allowed to take anything it finds, be that directly input or scraped from sites without the knowing and willful consent of the original creator, then all copyright could be then considered null and void. For what then can stop someone from taking the data of a company's proprietary technology, feeding to an AI to get something 'new', and therefor circumvent the copyright violation? What is stopping companies from replacing artists with poor and cheap imitations? What incentive is there from killing jobs and stealing work from honest Americans?

If America wants to stand tall and proud in the global AI race, then it needs strong copyright protections, and strong AI standards of what can be used and how. America can stand as a bastion to people over machines, to people over profits and more, it can shape the global AI trend of violating copyright. Stand with artists, stand with Americans.

Do not allow profit to overcome real people.