General Comment

Are you insane?

We already have a massive misinformation campaign after campaign happening everywhere and you want to just feed that beast MORE? How many states do we have to burn down? How much water do we have to waste before you give an inkling of care for the world?

I put my heart and soul into everything I draw, I do it as a hobby, and you want it to be free to steal from me and do whatever it wants with it? If one car dealership went and stole parts from 20 other dealerships to make their cars wouldn't that be illegal? So, why do you think it's ok to steal from photographers? From artists? From writers?

We spent so much time creating copyright laws and you just want to throw all of that away because you think you're getting in on the scheme before it crashes out. It's already been proven that AI costs more to maintain then the value it's making back, and this is not to mention the backlash from everyday people.

This is a disastrous idea. I think you know that, but do you even care?
