General Comment

I do not believe it is in any American's best interest to give AI Organizations such as OpenAI immunity from copyright violations. It is unfair to small businesses and their owners who must abide by these laws to allow technology companies to dodge them and avoid accountability, and I believe it goes against the values I hold and that many other citizens like me hold to allow large companies to profit off the creative work of the average citizen. Furthermore, products created by AI are of no appeal to me, and I'm fundamentally uninterested in supporting any company which utilizes it to cut corners and provide a cheaper, lesser value product. I strongly oppose any sort of Executive Orders or legislation of any sort that allows AI operations to go unchecked, and believe their use will only cheaper the output of American creative endeavors on the whole and opens the nation to ridicule on a worldwide stage. Thank you for your time.
