General Comment

I have had my work used in AI outputs. They used my writing for television to do it. Specifically they took the subtitles of children's television shows that I worked on. This means they took the writing I've created, the writing that sounds the most naturalistic and like how a real person would talk, and fed it into their machines without my permission. This was not something that existed when I wrote those shows, so of course it was never covered in any contracts or anything.

What this also means is that every time a bot online is pretending to be a normal person in support of nazis, hate speech, KKK, or other extreme views I've never once shared in my life, that's based on my writing that I never gave them.

Phone scammers trying to take advantage of the elderly. Billion dollar corporations using a chatbot to stall you from cutting your cable bill. From the tiniest aggressions in our lives to the largest, they've all taken from my work to make themselves sound like normal human beings.

I've spent years of my life adding art to the world, mostly for children. That art is based on my life and experiences and thoughts. It's so intensely personal, and I would never give those rights and that art away to be ingested by a robot and used by some random person, be they someone I agree with or not, however they see fit. It's an incredibly irresponsible force to release on the world, and incredibly cruel to those of use who created the original works.

I have no way to fight this. None. The only way this can be stopped is if you stop it.

Please stop this. There are so many people like me. Please stop this!
