General Comment

Open AI has built itself up by stealing from millions of more creative individuals who actually have the skill to create themselves. They have no right to profit off of the work they've only gotten access to through theft, and without proper compensation of those who create that base data. This giant company is already in the wrong and hundreds of lawsuit that are clearly not going their way are proof. You can't just steal something and take credit for building it. AI is NOT the future for the US.
