General Comment

Please enforce copyright law and protect millions of jobs. The ethics of AI use are non-negotiable. The copyright and ownership of a piece of media, whether it be art, movies or music, belong to the original creator. AI has been used as a justification to avoid accountability for unauthorized use of copyright material. This has larger implications for everyone. Smaller creators having their work stolen to be a part of an AI model without consent is an issue we are facing today.

AI has a place in scientific research and should continue to follow proper procedure for data collection under the close watch of an ethics board. The collection of medical data, proper peer review, studies under multiple AI models to account for bias. These will be and are issues facing AI assisted research.

I present these issues in the hopes of bringing awareness and working towards a solution
