General Comment

Allowing free-reign on data collection for "AI" companies would effectively kill American creative industries, affecting over 5 million jobs and over a trillion dollars of the economy.

Nonwithstanding that current "AI" technology is more or less nebulous as to its actual capabilities and that it is completely unproven as to if it is actually useful other than in very small niche applications and that it is mathematically proven to not be scalable to human-level output (cf Iris van Rooij et. al., "Reclaiming AI as a theoretical tool for cognitive science", 2025).

Stop buttering money into a technology that doesn't work, will not bring economic benefits and will ruin a trillion dollar industry.

Put money into real science, not fake marketing claims.
