General Comment

why the f&^% does an industry that has only proved it's good for LOSING MONEY get to flout copyright like this is the stupidest s&^% ever. Literally the only people who care about 'AI dominance' are the people hawking it, no one else wants this at all. There's absolutely zero reason why AI companies should be exempt from copyright persecution in this current environment, and honestly any focus spent here is a goddamn waste of resources amounting to another payout to useless capitalists.
